

Mass Tort Litigation

If you have a dynamic business that keeps up with technology and changing business practices, you need attorneys that are ahead of the game.

A relatively new area of law, Mass Tort Litigation is a complex and demanding practice area. Mass tort litigation refers to issues in which a company or individual does harm to a number of people as a result of an action or product. Cases in this practice area include product liability, such as breast implants and tobacco litigation; large business antitrust claims, such as price fixing; and large scale, "man-made" disasters, such as airplane crashes and chemical plant explosions.

Our Mass Tort Litigation Attorneys

Dwayne Hermes

Michael Hurst

David Hymer

Arlene Wiese

Kimberly Anne Wilson

HSB's Mass Tort Litigation attorneys have the experience necessary to handle the sophisticated legal matters and procedures involved in this practice group. They have the resources to keep up with the changes in legal standards that result from technological and scientific developments. And they have the commitment to aggressively pursue your best interests.

